Dr 6 stung did not succeel in getting his gun used to any extent in the grea. American war. The first machine gun which ever saw service in the held was the brone in trailleuse. This gun was large abourd and clousty, and so heavy that it required to be frawn by horses it would fire but loo show per manute. It did not comprise the necessary elements of success, and consequently falled.

The next machine guns to make their appearance were the Hotchkes, the Lowell, the Nordenfeld, were operated by a hand transit, the Nordenfeld, were operated by a hand transit, the Nordenfeld, were operated by a recip rocating lever. All of these guns must necessarily be mounted upon a firm base, and be framed and elevated by screws and worin gears. If they were made to work freely upon a pivot or universal joint they would not be trun enough to remain stationary while the crash or han lie was being operated. The safe speed at which a machine gun can be fired depends in a great measure upon the kind and age of cartradges used. For instance, if cartradges have been made some time a triding amount of mostare may have accumulated in the powder near the primer. When this dampness occurs the car tridges are said to hang fire, that is, they do not explode at the instant of being struck. Suppose that one cartradge time to explode, other wires it might be drawn from the barrel before it exploded, or in the threat of exploding in either of which case it would be ingertable for operate the gun sufficiently slowly on the entire series it give this slow cartradge time to explode, other wire in might be drawn from the barrel before it exploded, or in the threat of exploding in either of which case it would be received in the fixed of the trouble in operated back and unit of the point of the tous of other would be accurated by the empty stell from the b I he are do not have whappered for me robber it he are do not have whappered for me robber it he are do not have whappered for me robber it he are do not have whappered for me robber it he are do not have whappered for me robber it he are do not roung to give up my ring without a struggle. No one can fail to be struck with the wonderful ingenoity and great promise of this new weapon. Its automatic action, its power of regulation, and its rapidity of fire must recommend it to the military authorities, while its steadiness and the small demands it makes upon the attention of the nuan incharge, must greatly enhance its value in action, where it is not the number of shots but the number of his that count. THE HANARIPT STATE OF REVADA.

NEW YORK, Dec 13.—[Special.]—The Herable says. The state of Nevada has collapsed. It never was much of a state, and never should have been admitted to the Union. The enabling act of Marci, 1884, was one of the most culpable follies of the republican party. It swindled the other states, by giving senators and representatives in congress to a mining camp among barren mountains. What shall be done with the collapsed state. Is not a constitutional amendment destrable to extinguish it? Is t just that other states should tolerate the morstrous political power Nevada exercises in congress and in the electroal college any longer than may be needed to carry it (the constitutional amendment) by due process of law? But the extinguishment of any state is a very serious matter, and the continuance of any state in the monstrous condition of Nevada is a very serious matter also. CHAFFER TALKS ABOUT GRANT

"Will the bolacco interests of the United States be affected and how much?"

"There seems to be a variety of sontinent among innutractives and producers of tobacco as to what effect the fresty will have upon their industries. My owy conviction is that it will have no injurious effect upon—either industry. Sugar and tolacco are the only products wafen tropical count less have to offer in exchange in commercial recurrectly. It was thought better to make a uniform reduction as to both heaf and manufactured tobacco or cigars, rather than to remove the duty entirely on either one or the other. THE COMPLET OF THE PROPERTY OF THE nded that she should She is bright and quick, perhaps quicker than e boy No wonder all her strength is forced the by No wonder all her strength is forced into her brain. A boy a is distributed equally throughout his whole system. He eats heartily, plays with a will, shouts bustly and, excepting, perhaps, a few rather trying interviews with an orderly father or guardian, injurys every moment of his existence. Physical exercise is as painful to a guri as it would be to a horse cumbered with a survingle from absoluters to hips, to which are attached circles of cloth which lengthen as the years increase

This, then, is the root of the evil.

Next is the insufficiency of clothing on the lower extremities which are naturally cold from the stopping of the flow of the warm blood to them.

In our change my skirt that is even so short as to come just below the tops of the shoes will often by wet around the edge of the hem, and sitting all day in damp skirts and with this shoes and hose which absorb the moisture, is sure to bring ou a cold which is repeated again and again until the result is catarrh with flushed face and aching band. And again that the result is catarra with flashed face and aching head

More especially in a damp climate than in a cold one should woolen underclothing be worn coid one should woolen underclothing be worn over the entire serson.

Many families coming from the east forget this and, deceived by the midness of our cit mate, neglect the precaution.

Four integries in a family are still wearing muchins not even closed at the knee. Two of them already have latarth, one at least in a chrome form, and the mother wonders why the thildren have such colds.

Eastern phrascings in come to the still the chrome form, and the mother wonders why the children have such colds.

Fastern physicians on coming to this state notice the durating prevalence of the assess among women which, to a large extent, are brought on by cell and damp extremities.

There is a thirt trouble which applies to school girls especially. This is their receiving the attention of gentlemen.

There is a thirt for a few moments and seldom, then often and more often with lengthened calls until it is impossible for her not to know that she is the object of his visits.

There is no greater injury—even the ball room, the party and the consequent late hours are suching to this influence upon her mind. It is not so much in the detraction from her studies as the introducing into her life a new element, a something forced upon her now which should come in offer years, as softly and sweetly and purely as the morning sunshine.

Her mind becomes diverted from books without her wil and her endeavor to follow them as before but whirls the overloaded brain faster. A flower may be forced to blossom but ever afterward the plant is stunted tur English cousins owe their robustness to their early hours, bathing, calisthenics and exercises with wholesome food.

Their French neighbors call them awkward, and we adore the sriph-like French figure Let our robust English cousins become the motherp of the hardy English antion and their sliph like French neighbors, brought up on condinents and dressed for exhibit to the high set in jet, become the mothers of the feverish French nation
